

MARKET REPORT

FRIDAY 21st AUGUST 2020

PRIME LAMBS - 1698

Auctioneer - Greg Christopher

Despite the awful weather conditions and trade easing, a very respectable entry of lambs that were a sharper than anticipated trade. Again the smalls 26-34kg continue to be very keenly sought after, with these averaging well over 200p/kg, smarter bred smalls 205-212p/kg. Another good show of meated stronger lambs, these looked well sold especially, with some firms pulling 20p out of their deadweight quotes for Monday morning. Well bred lambs all 195-205p/kg. Heavies to £100, with several 44-46kg lambs trading £86 to £94. Seven men to bid for the lambs providing excellent competition.

More lambs can be sold each week. Please note Friday 25th August sale to start at the earlier time of 10am.

A larger entry with no end of smaller plainer hardy ewes, however a very good trade with several grazing purchasers looking for both good under and grazing ewes. Only a handful of stronger type ewes, these to £80 twice, with others all £70 to £79.50. More of these stronger ewes needed each week. Stronger Welsh and Speckles over £60 to £64.50. Medium sorts all £50 to £60, with the large entry of smaller and plainer types generally trading from £30 to £49.50. Several large bunches £35 to £45, very plain from £15 to £30 and look the dearest sold at times. Plenty of competition for the ewes, good entries needed each week

Covid-19 Update

Vendors must adhere to Social Distancing - This is Serious! We need you to work with us if we are to remain open!

We cannot stress enough the importance for our vendors to fully comply with social distancing measures and to take all necessary precautions when attending our markets. We would encourage vendors to wear face masks and gloves to reduce the potential risk of the transmission of this deadly virus.

The virus is still very much in circulation and now is not the time to become complacent. Primarily there a real risk to life and with the test and trace systems currently in place, a positive Covid test from a person who has visited our market could potentially shut all our markets down for two weeks. If a buyer tests positive then this could potentially shut every market along the Welsh Marches and beyond for two weeks.

We have already seen several meat processing plants shut down, the principle is exactly the same for the livestock markets.

You have trusted us this far and we have made sure that your stock has been sold to a competitive and buoyant trade. We need to get through this difficult time so that at some point in the future we can welcome vendors back in the markets with open arms! We need the farmers back in the market but at the moment we would encourage you to still "drop and go" wherever possible. We need to stay open, especially as we are now gearing up for the autumn sale fixtures.

The Livestock Association has released the following statement:

The LAA is working hard, alongside Defra and the Welsh Government, to deliver procedures to enable greater market access ahead of the crucial autumn sales.

"We are working diligently ahead of the backend sales season," says Mr Dodds. "We know many more vendors will want to be ringside at this crucial time during the sales programme, and we are looking at solutions to accommodate them, as the situation evolves."

The LAA warns against complacency, with vendors encouraged to protect their own health and minimise the risk to others.

"Unfortunately, we have recently seen examples of confirmed coronavirus outbreaks and positive tests within meat and food processing plants, resulting in their temporary closure or disruption to their businesses," adds Mr Dodds.

"Our priority is of course public health, but equally we do not want to see the knock-on effects of marts having to temporarily close, or indeed, farmers put on a 14 day self-isolation, due to failures to minimise risks."

The LAA fears that a second virus spike may have severe implications for the autumn sales programme. Therefore, sales will continue to be restricted by social distancing in some form until the situation and Government guidance changes sufficiently.

Guidelines:

- Keep your distance
- Stay out of the Alleyways (especially where the buyers are)
- Wear a facemask
- Do not enter the office

STAY SAFE, KEEP YOUR DISTANCE AND REDUCE THE RISK
